

Interim Pastor / Student Pastor Position

Overseas Experience - Leadership - Parish Ministry

Great opportunity for a seminarian or student intern looking for overseas experience and a taste of parish ministry! La Paz Community Church is the only English-language Protestant church in Bolivia, and our full-time pastor departed in March. We're looking for an interim pastor while we search for a permanent replacement. The opportunity would be for a maximum of 90 days due to visa restrictions. The church would pay round-trip airfare (up to $1000), fully furnished housing and utilities, and a small stipend of $200/mo. (doesn't sound like much, but it goes much farther here than in the U.S.). Duties would include weekly preaching / leading Sunday worship, leading a weekly Bible study, attending monthly church board meetings, and supervising the part-time office assistant (three afternoons/week, making sure she pays bills, etc.). Some Spanish would be helpful but not required – the church operates in English.

We are an international congregation of about 250, with a weekly attendance of 50, inter-denominational but theologically sound, and we support one full-time missionary in South Africa and outreach projects here in Bolivia. The church owns its own building and parsonage.
